BERT GOODSELL DEAD. Unexpected Death of Young Man Shocks Many Friends.

H. A. Goodsell, better known as "Bert" Goodsell, assistant door keeper at the Grand Opera House, died unexpectedly Saturday afternoon at the family residence, 2364 Quincy avenue, aged 26 years. The immediate cause of death was paralysis of the heart. The announcement of his untimely demise came as a great surprise to his many friends as few had heard of his failing health. Bert was well known in Ogden, where he has lived the greater part of his life. He was very genial and made many friends. For several years past he has been employed as usher, stage hand and door keeper A. Goodsell, better known as as usher, stage hand and door keeper at the opera house. He leaves a mother and several sisters to mourn his demise. The funeral services were held this afternoon at the family residence.

This was about a year ago, fler father, Isaac Pirdsall, procured copies of the records of the Church courts and other documents in the case and went to Washington at the time of the Smoot hearing and the whole matter was gone over tefore the investigating committee, though what relation it had to the Smoot case it is difficult imagine. When Mr. Birdsall returned he petitioned the district court to have his daughter Cora declared incompetent and that he be appointed her guardian, which was done and an action was brought by which it was sought to have the deed made to feavitt set aside on the ground that undue influence was exercised in procuring it, and for the further reason that miss Birdsall was not of sound mind and was incompetent to execute the deed. This is the case which has just been decided by Judge Chidester and he finds the issues in favor of the de-fendant, Leavitt. The court holds that there was no undue influence. That every church organization and order has a right to discipline its members and that it would be error to hold that acts done in obedience to such disci-pline are void. As to the quesion of competence it was shown by the evi-dence that Miss Birdsall executed a deed to her father some time subsequent to the date of the deed made to Leavitt and that the same was accepted and is now in the possession of Isaae Birdsall. Mr. Birdsall will appeal the case to the Supreme court.
